President Xiusheng Yang
Chinese American Professors Association

Dear Professor Yang,

Congratulations on the establishment of the Chinese American Professors Association in Connecticut (CAPA-CT), and wish you a successful inauguration on March 22, 2014, at Yale University.

The China Association for Science and Technology (CAST) is the largest national non-governmental organization of scientific and technological workers in China. CAST has close ties with millions of Chinese scientists, engineers and other people working in the fields of science and technology. CAST also maintains cooperative relations with scientific and technological organizations of many countries, and supports international exchanges and collaborations. Chinese American professors in Connecticut have great reputations in various disciplines of natural and social science and technology, and have actively led and/or participated in numerous international cooperative projects, especially between China and the United States. The establishment of CAPA-CT is believed to significantly strengthen the existing connections among Overseas Chinese professionals in Connecticut, and to enhance the collaborative programs of your members with Chinese professionals in various natural and social science fields.

Again, CAST congratulates the establishment of CAPA-CT, and looks forward to more successful collaborations between professionals in China and the United States.

Enthusiastically,

Jiansheng Zhang,

Director-General
International Affairs Department
China Association for Science and Technology
